REMEMBERING SERGEANT CHRISTOPHER SHERMAN ENEY

Ms. MIKULSKI. Madam President, this August, 25 years ago, Capitol Police Sergeant Christopher Sherman Eney died in the line of duty. I rise to remember Sergeant Christopher Sherman Eney and the great sacrifices of our law enforcement officers.

The men and women who make up the Capitol Police protect not only Members of Congress but all the people visiting Capitol Hill, from foreign dignitaries to Girl Scout troops. Sergeant Eney was a loyal and dedicated member of the U.S. Capitol Police. He served on the force for twelve years.

On August 24, 1984, U.S. Capitol Police officers participated in SWAT training. That evening, the officers wanted to practice a particularly difficult exercise just one more time. During this final activity, Seg. Eney was accidentally shot and killed.

Sergeant Eney's life was cut tragically short. He was 37 years old. He left behind his wife Vivian and their two daughters: Shannen and Heather. My thoughts and prayers are with Sergeant Eney's family as we remember that tragic day.

Shortly after Sergeant Eney's passing, Vivian spoke of her husband and other fallen officers. She could not have spoken truer words when she said, "It is not how these officers died that made them heroes, it is how they lived." Her famous words are forever engraved on the National Law Enforcement Officers Memorial.

It is up to us to honor Vivian's words. Twenty five years later, we remember Sergeant Eney as a man dedicated to risking his life for his Nation. He was a brave and courageous man. He lived every day protecting his country and the future of his children.

I am so proud of every U.S. Capitol Police officer who puts their life on the line. I ask my colleagues to join me in thanking them for their service.

HONORING OUR ARMED FORCES

STAFF SERGEANT EDMOND LO

Mrs. SHAHEEN. Madam President, I wish to express my sympathy over the loss of U.S. Army SSG Edmond Lo, a 23-year-old native of Salem, NH. Staff Sergeant Lo was killed while attempting to neutralize an improvised explosive device in Samarra City, Iraq, early in the morning of June 13, 2009.

Staff Sergeant Lo was born and raised in Salem. He attended Salem High School, where he became a leader of the Air Force Junior ROTC program before graduating in 2004. Lo was determined to join the Army after graduation, even turning down a host of college acceptance letters in order to enlist. He became a member of the Army's 797th Ordnance Company—stationed out of Fort Hood, TX—and was on his second tour of duty in Iraq.

In high school, Edmond Lo earned the nickname "Mr. Dependable." Those who knew him described him as kind, hardworking and strong-willed. Even after his first tour of duty, Staff Sergeant Lo kept a close connection to the community where he grew up, returning to Salem High School to share photographs from his first trip to Iraq.

New Hampshire is proud of Staff Sergeant Lo's service to and sacrifice for our country. He, and the thousands of brave men and women of the U.S. Armed Forces serving today, deserve America's highest honor and recognition.

Staff Sergeant Lo is survived by his parents David and Rosa, as well as two brothers and three sisters. He will be missed dearly by all those who knew him.

I ask my colleagues to join me and all Americans in honoring U.S. Army SSG Edmond Lo.

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY'S COMMENCEMENT CEREMONY

Mr. SCHUMER. Madam President, I ask unanimous consent to have printed in the RECORD the remarks given by Secretary of State Hillary Clinton at New York University's commencement ceremony in New York City, on May 13, 2009.

There being no objection, the material was ordered to be printed in the RECORD, as follows:

THE HONORABLE HILLARY RODHAM CLINTON,
SECRETARY OF STATE

Thank you. Thank you so much. Thank you. And does it get any better than this, a graduation ceremony for one of the great universities in the world in the home of New York Yankees? Nothing could be better. And thanks to all of you for cheering a visitor. I didn't realize that was permitted in Yankee Stadium.

I am honored to receive this degree. And on behalf of the other honorees, I say thank you. Thank you for giving us this singular privilege of being part of this commencement ceremony. As I look out at this huge crowd of graduates, family, and friends, I can only reflect on what an extraordinary moment in history you are receiving your degrees, a moment in time of our country and the world where your talents and your energy, your passion and commitment is more needed than ever. There is no doubt that you are well prepared for a world that seems somewhat uncertain but which will welcome the education that you have received on behalf of not only of yourselves and your families, but your communities and your country.

CHALLENGES FOR GRADUATES

As Secretary of State, I am well aware of the challenges that we face. You, as new graduates, and your generation will be up against those challenges: climate change and hunger, extreme poverty and extreme ideologies, new diseases and nuclear proliferation. But I am absolutely convinced that you and we are up to the task. There is no problem we face here in America or around the world that will not yield to human effort, to cooperation, to positive interdependence that makes clear humanity is going on, our challenges are ones that summon the best of us, and we will make the world better tomorrow than it is today.

Now, I know that it is fashionable in commencement speeches to be idealistic, and that may sound so, but at the root of my conviction is a strong sense of reality. Because you see, I don't think we have a choice. We can sit on the sidelines, we can wring our hands, we can retreat into cynicism, and we know what the results will be: We will cede the field to those whose ideologies are absolutely anathema to people of conscience and faith all over the world. So our positive interdependence, which is a fact, will prepare us to meet these challenges. But they can no longer be seen just as government-to-government. There is a time and an opportunity, and with the new technologies available, for us to be citizen diplomats, citizen activists, to solve problems one by one that will give in to hard work, patience, and persistence, and will then aggregate to the solutions we seek. Now, I know we cannot send a special envoy to negotiate with a pandemic, or call a summit with carbon dioxide, or sever relations with the global financial crisis. To confront these threats and to seize the opportunities that they also present, we need to build new partnerships from the bottom up, and to use every tool at our disposal. That is the heart of smart power. But smart
